The company has been doing this for nearly 10 years but our Managing Director has over 25 years experience in supplying medical equipment and consumables and with it has come the outstanding reputation for best value coupled with unparalleled customer service.

DSO Commented in their recent case study 'Medical Warehouse has every type of medical supply one could need. From bandages to defibrillators, and medical gloves to clotting sponges, the company supplies key equipment, devices and consumables for all healthcare scenarios from sophisticated hospitals to medics in the field. But it's the company's bespoke approach to tactical medicine that sets it apart from its competitors, and it counts emergency services around the UK as customers, along with hospitals, humanitarian aid organisations and private security companies.'

Our forte is to tailor our service for the end user's individual operational requirements – i.e. – from spill kits to basic HSE compliant First Aid Kits to Pandemic and Emergency Response packs or to develop a kit that would include defibrillators to be used by a trained medic or even provide a complete field hospital or new Clinic.

We will work with you at both the planning and trial stage of any project, to ensure that the final product is not only fit for purpose but exceeds expectation whilst being unrivalled in terms of best value. We are accredited with both ISO 9001 and ISO14001.

Further details of the range of products and services we offer are available on our website at www.medicalwarehouse.co.uk together with a downloadable version of our standard and tactical brochures. This shows just a small sample of the many items we regularly provide to our clients but is a good base and covers the most popular products.
